Zoumboulakis Galleries presents Yiannis Adamakis' latest work. A series of paintings portraying familiar images, such as the morning light upon opening a window, objects that go unnoticed because they always remain in the same place, images caught during a walk in the city..

« ... images of things that represent the symbolisms in our thoughts. It is a journey, a narration of our everyday lives, where reality and dreams merge and alternate roles. Images stimulated from personal memories and experiences, which in essence discredit the seriousness of events, adding a certain sarcasm, a childlike naiveness to the picture... Something like scribbled black and white photographs»
